

Dr. Ciela Hartanov

A human behavior expert, future of work visionary, organizational psychologist, speaker, and writer, Dr. Ciela Hartanov believes that every organization should have the opportunity to prosper in the future, and has dedicated her career to reinventing the way we work.

Ciela was part of the founding team of The Google School for Leaders and Head of Next Practice Innovation and Strategy at Google, where she developed projects designed to shape the future of leadership and work.

She's gone on to work with organizations such as Salesforce, Stripe and Mitel, equipping them to divert potential failures proactively, create viable solutions to problems faster, and adapt to ever-moving targets with innovation.

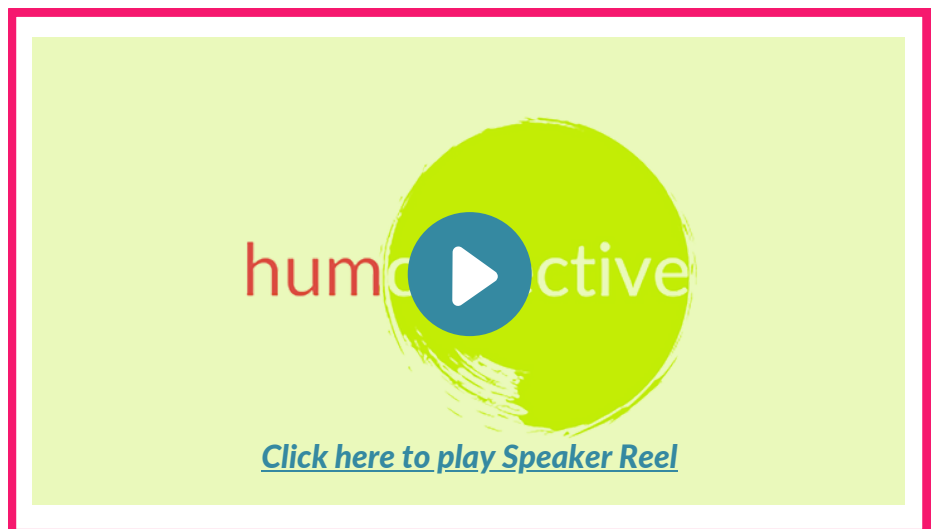

Today, she works with organizations through her boutique consulting firm, humcollective, to (r)evolutionize the way we work, innovate, and adapt – both as individuals and as organizations – via the Sensitivity Paradigm™.

Speaking topics

The Sensing Self: Fine-tune your receptivity to change using our innate human toolkit.

The Sense-Giving Leader: Inspire your leaders to guide others in times of uncertainty through the practice of sense-giving.

The Sensitivity Paradigm: Create new ways of seeing the world by embracing human perceptual skills to differentiate your leaders' problem-solving in an AI future.

"[Ciela] is an engaging and relatable speaker offering a unique blend of strong intellect and practicality that generates groundbreaking conversations." – Brian Glaser, Chief Learning + Talent Officer, Google
